- W3 Patience

Showed a lot of poise, but not enough patience. Too much 'acting' and not enough reacting.

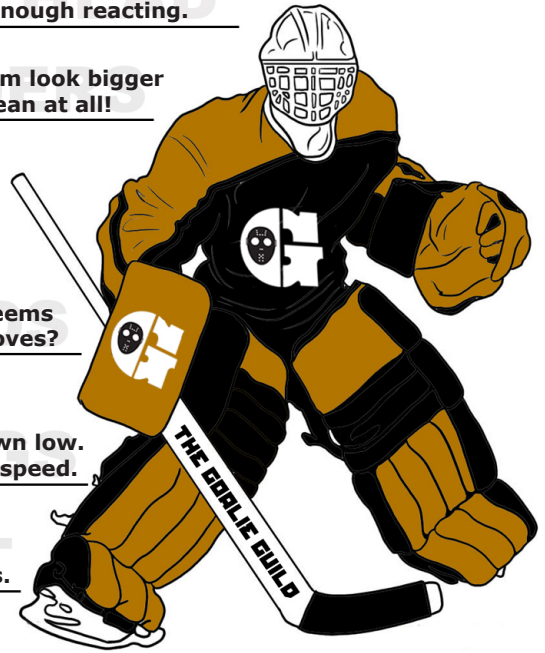

Very square shoulders makes him look bigger than he actually is. He doesn't lean at all!

Stick side needs tightening and needs to limit the poke-checks.

Extremely quick glove hand. Seems to be wearing smaller-sized gloves?

Strong legs, great coverage down low. Needs to "lighten up" for more speed.

Recovers efficiently and solid laterally. Needs more quickness.

Fantasy Analysis and Goalie Skill Rankings

Very impressive poise, positioning for an 18 yr old. Tries to poke-check or surprise players too often, so needs to be more patient. His smaller gloves leave the corners of the net more exposed than normal, so his quick glove hand will be a non-factor at the AHL/ NHL level until he gets faster or gets bigger gloves. He has the look and feel of a Steve Mason w/ a very square and broad upper body. Could easily see him in the NHL in 4-5 years. Keep an eye on his progression in Windsor next season as a major factor in his development. He's a US-born goalie taking a non-traditional route and after seeing him today, I'm sold that he's a legitimate prospect.

Total Score	BOTTOM LINE: Very poised young US-born goaltender with solid upper body positioning and a great attitude. For his first on-ice pro training session, he had a lot of enthusiasm and displayed great skills. Definitely a goalie to keep an eye on in Windsor next season.		100%	73.5
